Made In Palestine on view at SomArts, San Francisco, April 7 through April 21, 2005. The exhibition showcases a collection of contemporary art made by 23 Palestinian artists and refugees, who live in the occupied territories and the Diaspora. The works on display cover a wide range of media and present individual reflections on the Palestinian contemporary experience and the political situation in Palestine. The Station Museum, Houston, where the show originated, described Made In Palestine as "the first exhibit of contemporary Palestinian art ever displayed in the United States."
